Public Consulting Group LLC

Instructors:

Megan Rodriguez

Julie McEachin

Robert Frantum-Allen, MA in Special Education

Course Description: The Creating Fluent Readers module focuses on creating fluent readers and explores the importance of fluency as a bridge to comprehension. Topics addressed by the module include the components of fluency and the progression of skills students need to become fluent readers. The module explores explicit, evidence-based instructional strategies and what the focus of oral reading fluency instruction should be at different grade levels. Lastly, it examines fluency assessment, including screening and diagnosing fluency; determining reading fluency, accuracy levels, and prosody levels; and determining fluency-building goals for children who lack accuracy, rate, or prosody.

Course Learning Outcomes:

- Understand and explain reading fluency and the respective components, including rate or speed of reading, accuracy of reading, and reading with expression or prosody. (KPS 1.3, 1.8, 4D.1)
- Understand the reciprocal relationships between fluency and other components of reading with connections to conceptual models and frameworks such as the Simple View of Reading and Scarborough's Reading Rope, and describe the progression of foundational skills needed to become a fluent reader. (KPS 1.3, 4D.3)
- Know/apply in practice considerations for varied techniques and methods for building reading fluency that is taught in an explicit manner. (KPS 4A.1, 4D.2, 4D.3, 4F.4, 4F.5)
- Understand the consequences for students who do not become fluent and fluency's role in creating motivated readers. (KPS 2.5, 4D.1, 4D.3)
- Utilize strategies that assist in motivating students to read extensively. (KPS 4D.1)
- Understand how to provide explicit instruction in fluent reading, as well as strategies for fluency practice. (KPS 4A.1, 4D.1, 4D.2, 4D.3)
- Understand how to use assistive technologies for students with serious deficits. (KPS 4D.3)
- Use benchmarks and norming in fluency as well as how to screen, diagnose, and monitor fluency. (KPS 4D1, 3.1, 3.2, 3.4, 3.5, 3.6)

Module 4: Creating Fluent Readers Syllabus

Required Text: In order to deepen your understanding of key concepts, the following text is required. Key chapters will be assigned per section/lesson in each module.

Birsh, J. R., & Carreker, S. (2019). Multisensory teaching of basic language skills (4th ed.). Brookes Publishing Co.

Key Assessment: At the end of this module, you will take a key assessment of all of the content in the module. The Key Assessment is aligned to the IDA KPS standards covered in this module. There will be a key assessment at the conclusion of each module. The exam will include 50 questions and must be passed at an 85% proficiency level.

Grading/Earning a Certificate: This module is a self-paced and asynchronous course. It is designed to stand alone, with automatic grading and feedback built into the interactive features. Each lesson is timed, and you must complete each lesson in order to pass. Upon the completion of the entire course of six modules and the passing of the six module key assessments, you will earn a certificate for 45 hours of professional development. The module is designed as pass/fail.
